at [redacted] in early December 1947 two men trained in splicing [redacted]

Approximately 24 splices will be required in addition to end-seals for transmission lines to 17 rhombic antennae. Since it is desirable that this work be completed before the beginning of the rainy season, it is requested that a detail of thirty days be provided to enable these men to assist during the entire operation. It is requested that the men detailed be acquainted with the latest changes in splicing techniques, and that this office be informed of any additions necessary to the splicing kits furnished six months ago.

A precise date for beginning the splicing operation will be furnished as soon as the progress of preliminary work makes possible its determination.
